Abstract

The purpose of this research is to understand the meaning of social entrepreneurship and socio-entrepreneurship. Using the literature source of books and scientific articles, the data is collected through a literature review then analyzed with the technique of content analysis. Based on the economic system of United States, the social entrepreneurship has meant to its most traditional, that is profit. In developing a strategy which divides economic and social aspects to delivery to activities of business, the performance of social entrepreneurship is measured economically as it applies the resource allocation (regulatory) and institutional. On the other hand, socio-entrepreneurship aimed from the economic system of France. It has to take orientation to process and behavior, paying its effort to create social improvement. Integrating the economic and social aspects, socio-entrepreneurship means the effort to contribute to social progress, social capital requirement is not necessarily to require the resource allocation to a need based analysis. This research yet examines the other aspects which figure society such as political, cultural and religious aspects. For the sake, Indonesia, it is recommended that the forthcoming research needs to study these aspects as well then the perspective of entrepreneurship can be enriched. The fact this research is on the conceptual context, it is also suggested to apply an empirical approach to verify this concept to study the current using statistical analysis.

ABSTRACT

The idea of entrepreneurship that was firstly stated in 1755 needs the support of social capital in the form of social networking and supporting infrastructure. Entrepreneurship has important role as the backbone of the national economy. Social entrepreneurship is a derivative theory of entrepreneurship that can be called as social change through innovative ideas, which uphold morale and social awareness. Entrepreneurship is not only measured by the financial aspect but also measured by the social benefits of feeling by society. This study assumes that one has taken out social entrepreneurship if it has been sincere capital and attitude to help social change. Thus, preparing social entrepreneurship early among students is needed to foster the degree of youth involvement in the development of national economy.

1. INTRODUCTION

Social entrepreneurship was conceived by Bill Drayton, the founder of the Ashoka Foundation. It arguably is new theme than the theory of CSR (Corporate Social Responsibility), the most widely adopted concept by enterprise to get closer to the surrounding environment including the business environment and consumer. Furthermore, social entrepreneurship is not so popular. Social entrepreneurship is different from corporate social responsibility (CSR) activities. Misinterpretations are often focused on entrepreneurship social which is regarded only to provide service regardless of profit (Cornwall, 1998).

The French Revolution of July 14, 1789, which prompted the poor conditions of the French Empire has driven the revolution in the field of entrepreneurship. In this period, Ricard Calton in 1755 raised thoughts about entrepreneurship to boost the national economy.

Abstract: The main specific objective of this paper is to explore the content of research as well as methodological issues on social entrepreneurship in the context of corporate social responsibility and entrepreneurship. Therefore, in order to collect an overview of the research literature on this domain, an analysis of literature reviews and the empirical research is conducted. We reviewed the studies and articles which were published in the most important academic journals that cover subjects on management, economics and business. The articles were classified based on the presence of selected keywords in their title, abstract and body of the article: 'social entrepreneur', 'social enterprise', 'social entrepreneurship', 'sustainable social entrepreneurship', and 'social entrepreneurship'. The data were collected from the online journals during the last decade of the 1990s up to 2011. We have also observed an international publication on the new and old ideas that approached social entrepreneurship.

Keywords: social entrepreneurship, social innovation, social entrepreneur, social enterprise, social business.

Introduction

According to Dees, even though social entrepreneurship is a concept that we have not recently become acquainted with, it is not a new phenomenon (Dees, 2003). The concept is rather new, but we can find examples of social entrepreneurs throughout history, such as Robert Owen or Thomas Nagler (Giles, 1972; Hester, 1975). In his work, Richard Schonberger (1986) and the concept introduced by Bill Drayton (1998), the term became widespread only in 1990, when the social problems expanded globally (Bourgeois, 2004). Another interesting development of social entrepreneurship is that despite the fact that entrepreneurs with a social purpose are not new and have existed for years, only recently they have been taken into consideration by scholars and by the government (Sardasheva, 1997).

Starting with the 1990s, social entrepreneurship has been a topic of interest, given by the increasing number of studies (Dees and Mann, 2005). In their studies, the researchers on social entrepreneurship mainly focused on describing the phenomenon (Dees and Michael, 2004). Most of the articles focused on describing the motivations, main characteristics and success factors of social entrepreneurs. Therefore, the social entrepreneurship literature lacks rigorous methods and formal hypotheses and instead of empirical articles, conceptual studies are predominant (Dees et al., 2009).

The literature review reveals that the research in this topic is based on success cases, the identification of social entrepreneurs, as well as personal characteristics of entrepreneurs' experiences. The most interesting aspects of social entrepreneurship are still hard to find despite the scholars' diverse subjects. Therefore, there is little evidence regarding how the environmental factors promote or inhibit the social entrepreneurial activities (Dillah et al., 2010). Even though we can find various case studies and theoretical works (Dees and Janzen, 2011; Dees, 2012; Dees, 2010; Ennis et al., 2012; Nicholas, 2011), most of them view the subject from a descriptive and institutional perspective. However, the scarce empirical resources make it difficult to Abstract— In this article we will analyze the concept of entrepreneurship and the importance of skills development to create a culture of entrepreneurship.

A search of articles was based on the keywords "entrepreneurship" and "skills of the entrepreneur, the period being considered between 2010 and 2014.

The goal was to identify personal skills (cognitive, social and relational skills, technical skills and management skills) and business skills (strategies adopted by the company, products and/or services, corporate image, and management systems: human resource management, financial management, marketing, among others, and the formal and informal structure of the company). The literature review was based on entrepreneurship studies with the goal to identify soft skills that entrepreneurs need to develop to create and manage innovative business.

1 Introduction

Entrepreneurship can be currently regarded as part of a strategy to boost the economy. It can be undertaken as a challenging task, either internally within organizations, either externally, by the creation of new businesses that are sustainable in a market and in a complex economic environment. Examples are studies on the importance of entrepreneurship in transition economies [1].

Thus, it is considered that entrepreneurship is associated with two different aspects:

- Creation and development of business/innovative companies - entrepreneurship
- Development of a function in an innovative way – intrapreneurship.

In the context of this article, the focus will be in the first part, associating entrepreneurship to the creation of innovative businesses.

The main objective of the research was to build a model of skills development for entrepreneurs, which will be presented and discussed in this article.

The article briefly explores the concept of entrepreneurship, followed by the presentation of the methodology used for building the skills development model, and the analysis and discussion of results. The article concludes with implications for practice and findings.

2.1 Concept of Entrepreneurship

The origin of the word 'entrepreneurship' is 'rooted in the Latin language, from the words prehendere and apprehensio.

Entrepreneurship can be understood as a individual or collective system and internal or external to the organizational structure, developing something new, from conception of ideas to the creation of a business.

Fundamentally, the entrepreneurial spirit is about... While... There are many sleepless nights, plans that don't work, funding that doesn't come, and clients that never materialize. When things get tough and are torn down, bold entrepreneurs bounce back and try again". "Deborah Sweeney, CEO of MyCorporation" "The ability to listen, whether to the opinions of customers or employees, is also essential to success. Often, employers seek to break free of these constraints, to find a better work-life balance, or to work sometimes and in unconventional ways. [They are] optimistic enough to believe in themselves, aware enough to see the problems around them, stubborn enough to move on, and bold enough to act again and again. Another group wants to pass on a source of income and security to their heirs. It is experimentation: Some experiments will work; many others will fail. Also, although the term "entrepreneur" is often associated with startups and small businesses, any founder of a successful family business started out as an entrepreneur. If you want to become an entrepreneur but you're worried you don't have the money to do it, your finances don't have to keep you from achieving your goals. An entrepreneur has to be able to build a team that cares about their job, and to do that, you have to worry about how to build your team". "Jonathan Barnett, President and CEO of Oxi Fresh Carpet Cleaning" "To be a successful entrepreneur, you need perseverance. Your business will die without a good team to back you up. The most successful entrepreneurs tend to be daring... don't give up until they exceed their goals. It's not always going to be roses and unicorns. It could be a business idea, but it could also be seeing the possibilities. People who can help you grow that business. Here is only some examples: Steve Jobs, the Technological Ladder died that Apple in a garage and grew it up with the dominant tablet, the smartphone and the computing company that it is today. Bill Gates, the creator of Microsoft and the founder who have often been listed as the richest individual in the world and has become a global leader on pandemics and how to manage them. What motivates entrepreneurs to venture when so many others would run in the opposite direction? It's about imagining new ways of solving problems and creating value. It must be able to adapt to changing economic conditions, and innovate and embrace technological advances to keep its customers engaged. To be a successful entrepreneur, you have to be someone who can risk taking risks at the deepest personal levels". Steven Benson, Founder and CEO of "Badger Maps", [Employers] must be able to pivot. This ability to see many options in each situation is critically important. There will be endless challenges that will test your hustle and bustle". "Preeti Sriratana, co-founder and strategy director of Sweeten" Entrepreneurs and business owners should definitely get used to taking risks", has to be uncomfortable. You are adaptable, regardless of what it throws at you". Michael Maher, IDEA Director, Cart Affairs Officer "The entrepreneurial spirit is always moving forward: never stopping, never allowing doubt or fear to take over, and believing wholeheartedly that even a wrong decision is better than no decision ". Adam Sherwin, Founder of Viakix Entrepreneurs "are the dreamers and the visionaries. The most successful entrepreneurs or entrepreneurs have never given rise to your idea. Quotations have been edited for brevity and clarity. They open brick and mortar companies, launch new technology companies or bring a new product or service to market. What an entrepreneur? An entrepreneur identifies the need for no existing company to address and determine a solution³ that need. need. It's not great outings, huge net worth or live a life of glamor. An entrepreneur must know who they are and what they need. [It is] aiming to do something better than what has been done before and to constantly pursue improvement." à Àc Blake Hutchinson, CEO and expert in small businesses in the FLIPPA enterprise" is Àc à | The constant hunger to make things better. The idea that he is never satisfied with the way things are." " Àc Debbie Roxarzade, founder and CEO of RacheiÀc kitchen "at its core, [entrepreneurship] is a mindset: a way of thinking and acting. Society needs entrepreneurs the same way, the body needs air." Cynthia Kirkby, Founder and Cvo of the Fresh season. Paula Fernandes contributes to inform and write in this article. Some want to establish a financial safety net for themselves and their families. While others are looking to make a big profit by creating the next big thing. Legacy: Entrepreneurs are often driven by a desire to create something that surpasses them. Trying to grow a company or run on an idea is difficult. It is difficult Work and persistence to leave the world a better place once the time is realized here." Àc à Konrad Biletz, co-founder and co-CEO of À Offset SolarÀc "A key skill that must be possessed by an entrepreneur who must possess self-awareness. It is the³ of achieving long-term goals, the courage to try again in the face of rejection, and a willingness to do better than has been done before. Then, consider if you have the specific features and attributes of the characters that will allow you to thrive as an entrepreneur. To help you determine if you have what it takes, this is what 25 company founders and business leaders said daily business news about what they think they make of a truly successful entrepreneur. "The spirit it is in the nurse of the American dream. The ability to recognize [and] methodically analyze [one] opportunity and, ultimately, to capture [their] value ". " Bachenheimer, lecturer³ sole director of the Entrepreneurship Laboratory at Pace University "The most successful entrepreneurs are the ones with courage. They really believe they have a product or service that fills a cow and are bound by a determined commitment to that goal to keep moving forward. Entrepreneurial activity includes the development and launch of new businesses and their commercialization³ often with the ultimate goal of selling the business for profit. An entrepreneur who regularly launches new businesses, sells them and then starts new businesses is a serial entrepreneur. Starting a business can be so challenging that it can make you wonder why someone voluntarily embarks on this journey. Despite all these difficulties, each year, thousands of entrepreneurs embark on this journey determined to carry out their³ and satisfy a need they see in society. Business spirit is not something you do because you have an idea. It's about breaking new ground, believing in yourself, in your³, and inspiring others to join you along the way. Without them, the world stagnates and progress stops. It's about having the creativity to question, the strength to believe, and the courage to move.
